Identity

Home: where the heart is

The exhibition features works by Australian and New Zealand artists who are concerned with issues of identity. The exhibition explores how artists respond to the complexities of identity, both personal and cultural. Through a variety of media, including painting, sculpture, and installation, the artists examine themes such as heritage, belonging, and the construction of identity.

Place

and space

The exhibition aims to provide a platform for artists to explore and express their ideas about identity in a way that resonates with the viewer. By doing so, it encourages a deeper understanding and appreciation of the diverse perspectives that make up the fabric of our community.

Gender

These works challenge traditional gender roles and explore the complexities of gender identity. Through their art, the artists question the limitations placed on individuals based on societal expectations and encourage a more inclusive approach to gender expression.

Steffi Hjorth

Design

Design is about more than just aesthetics; it is about creating objects that can change the way we experience the world. The exhibition showcases a range of designs that are both visually appealing and functionally effective. From fashion to furniture, each piece is a testament to the power of design in shaping our environment and our experiences.

Terry Jennings

Design

Design is about more than just aesthetics; it is about creating objects that can change the way we experience the world. The exhibition showcases a range of designs that are both visually appealing and functionally effective. From fashion to furniture, each piece is a testament to the power of design in shaping our environment and our experiences.